Egan Again.

Chicago, 27.—In reply to the charges of Lady Florence Dixie against Patrick Egan, treasurer of the Land League, published in the New York Times, Egan was interviewed to-day, and gave his version of the controversy. In her letter Lady Dixie asserted that she did not know Richard Piggott, and never had any correspondence with him. Egan points out the pamphlet of eighty pages placed in the hands of the Dublin printing house last September, containing the grossest possible charges against the Land League, of which the bare page of the introduction was signed by Lady Dixie, but the remainder of the pamphlet was in the handwriting of Piggott. Passages were sent him and after a dozen or so copies were printed Lady Dixie became frightened at the array of charges and caused the books to be destroyed and the types broken. Unfortunately for Lady Dixie, says Mr. Egan, I have a copy of the pamphlet, and am aware of all her statements from that book. In the face of these facts, what became of her quibble to the effect that she never met or does not know Piggott. In her letter she calls me to prove my denial of her charges. As a matter of fact she has no standing to attack the Land League at all. She never pretended to have any sympathy with the Land League, and is not an Irish woman. She is not the daughter of the peer; her late fabrications about the boggs attack on her should show Americans how much, or rather how little value is to be placed on anything she says. He then repeated the story already published, to the effect that Piggott, as editor of the Irishman, told him (Egan) that Dublin Castle officials offered him (Piggott) £500 to publish a fictitious statement of the Land League accounts in his paper, and offering to suppress the same for £300, which he (Egan) refused to give. The fictitious statements from Dublin Castle, Egan asserts, are the same as those being promulgated by Lady Florence against the Land League.

A Sour Apple.

Chicago, 27.—Judge McAlister delivered an opinion in the appellate court to-day in the case of Nathan A. Stone against Dora Apple for breach of promise. Stone promised Apple in April 1881 to marry her on September 25th following. Both of them are Jews, and when the day arrived it turned out to be Yom Kippur, (the Jewish feast) at a moment on which no Jewish priest would celebrate the marriage. Consequently Stone declined to be married on that day and two days afterward Apple sued him for $5,000 damage for breach of promise. The jury gave her $2,000 damages. The appellate court overruled the decision and decides that no good Jew can be compelled to marry on Yom Kippur, whether he promised to do it or not. Miss Apple evidently was not disconsolate over Stone's default, as she has since married.

SURVIVORS.

The "Jeanette" Survivors Arrive.

New York, 27.—Ensign H. J. Hunt, of the Rogers, and Seamen J. H. Bartlett, H. W. Leach, F. E. Mannen and John Louterbach, members of the crew of the Jeanette, arrived to-day on board the steamer Westphalia. The party left Colon at the mouth of the Lena, on the 25th of October last. The first stage of their journey was to Verkholausk and occupied ten days. It took ten days more to reach Yakoutak, nine days to reach Vitein, and two days to reach Kirinsk. There one of the party, Aniguen, an Indian, who was suffering from small pox became so ill that it was impossible for him to proceed further, and Ensign Hunt sent forward to Irkutsk a distance of four days, Seamen Leach and Louterbach with Thorum, the interpreter, remaining at Kirinsk, and himself with Ariguee and others of the party, until the Indian finally died January 5th. The party again re-united at Kirinsk and proceeded together to Irkutsk, thence to Orenburg, on the frontier of Russia, a distance of twenty-four days' travel. All this part of their long journey had been made in sleds over the snowy steppes of Siberia, travelling night and day. At Orenburg they exchanged sleds for steam cars, and travelled by railroad to St. Petersburg, where they remained a week, and then proceeded direct to Hamburg, where on the 14th inst., they went on board the Westphalia. On the arrival of the steamer at its pier, Ensign Hunt and the seamen of the Jeanette were welcomed by Lieutenant Melville and Engineer Jacques, who came over from the Brooklyn navy yard in a tug. They spent some time together in the cabin, and then accompanied the lieutenant and engineer in a tug to the navy yard. The party will probably remain here until Thursday and then go to Washington, where the four surviving seamen will testify before the Jeanette inquiry committee. They say they do not yet know what testimony has been given by the other witnesses, nor what they can add to what has already been told, as they know nothing beyond what is also known to those who have been already examined. Ensign Hunt and the members of his party are in excellent health and the seamen show no trace of the trials they endured. They are naturally much pleased at their return to this country, and look forward with eagerness to the pleasure of again meeting the friends from whom they have been so long separated. This evening, at the navy yard, the party called on Commodore Upshur, and at his invitation, lunched with him at his residence.

Indian Murders.

San Francisco, 27.—A Richmond, New Mexico, special says: Indians attacked the camp of Palmer & Emrick, about ten miles east of York's ranch, at three o'clock yesterday. Jack Haynes and a stranger were killed. John Emrick is missing and supposed to be killed; other men in the camp escaped to York's ranch. The military line between this point, Fort Bayard and Fort Cummings is abandoned. It is reported that a large band of Indians are secreted in the mountains north of York's ranch.

The following is just received: Richmond, 27th, 10:30 a. m.—Geo. Parks has just arrived and reported the Indian attacked Irvings, seven miles south of York's; five men killed.

San Francisco, 27.—Tombstone dispatch: Yesterday Capt. Charles Young arrived from Swishhelm's, and reported a fight between five Apaches and himself at Frank Leslie's ranch on Sunday last. The Indians laid siege to the house, and kept up a steady fire from behind rocks all the afternoon. They set fire to the country in order to burn them out, but not succeeding that way they attempted to shell them out. Captain Young is positive that several were killed. Next morning a detachment of the Sixth Cavalry arrived. Young heard a number of shots in Sulphur Spring Valley and thinks ranchers were attacked. The country for miles is burnt and cattle run off.

Lordsburg, N. M., dispatch: A Richmond special gives intelligence of the killing of two more, making a total of nine white men killed in the vicinity of Richmond during the past twenty-four hours. Capt. Black and his company of Shakespeare guards will leave tonight for Richmond and Gila with about thirty men. It is reported that the Indians number 100. Grave fears are entertained here for the safety of settlers in Gila Valley, and there is a possibility of an attack being made upon laborers along the line of the Lordsburg and Chifton Railroad.

In connection with those discussions are mentioned the names of Geo. F. Hoar, Charles Francis Adams, Jr., President Seely, Edward Atkinson, Henry George, General Walker and others.
